Proofreading copy: every page of the website, in text

Prepared October 26, 2026 from the current local build. Quiz pages are not included.

How to use this copy

Each website page starts on a new sheet under a green banner showing its web address and its number (Page 1 of 16). Every heading, paragraph, list item and table has a blue reference number in brackets, such as [7]. Write your notes in the right-hand column.

To dictate a change, give the page, the reference number, and the new wording. For example: "Page 5, reference 7: change 'up to' to 'generally up to'." To drop something, say "delete"; to add something, say where it goes.

Text shown in grey after an underlined link, such as [link: /quiz/], is where that link goes. Please check those too. Each page also lists its browser-tab title and its search-result description, which visitors see but which do not appear on the page itself.

[1] Home [link: /] / Learn [link: /learn/]

[2] What Is an SBA 7(a) Loan?

[3] Last reviewed: October 25, 2026

[4] The 7(a) loan program is the U.S. Small Business Administration's most common way of helping small businesses get financing. It is named after section 7(a) of the Small Business Act.

[5] The SBA does not usually lend the money

[6] A 7(a) loan is made by a participating bank, credit union, or other SBA-approved lender. The SBA guarantees a portion of the loan. If the borrower defaults, the SBA repays the lender part of the loss. That guarantee makes lenders more willing to approve loans they might otherwise decline, and often allows longer repayment terms than conventional loans.

[7] Key facts

[8] Table

Feature	Typical 7(a) loan
Maximum loan amount	$5 million
SBA guarantee	Up to 85% on loans of $150,000 or less; up to 75% on larger loans
Who lends	SBA-approved banks and non-bank lenders
Common uses	Working capital, equipment, real estate, buying a business, refinancing
Repayment	Up to 10 years for most purposes; up to 25 years for real estate
Interest	Fixed or variable, subject to SBA maximums

[9] Who it is for

[10] 7(a) loans are designed for for-profit businesses operating in the United States that meet the SBA's size standards and cannot obtain credit on reasonable terms elsewhere. See Who is eligible? [link: /learn/eligibility/] for details.

NOTES

[11] The “term loan” idea

[12] A term loan gives you a lump sum up front that you repay in regular installments over a set period. Most 7(a) loans work this way. Some 7(a) variations, such as lines of credit, work differently.

[13] Next steps

[1] Home [link: /] / Learn [link: /learn/]

[2] Who Is Eligible for an SBA 7(a) Loan?

[3] Last reviewed: October 25, 2026

[4] Eligibility has two parts: the business and the owners. Each lender also applies its own credit standards on top of the SBA's rules.

[5] Basic business requirements

[6] • Operates as a for-profit business

[7] • Has its principal place of business in the United States or its territories

[8] • Qualifies as a small business under the SBA's size standards (based on industry, using revenue or number of employees)

[9] • Is in an eligible industry (see below)

[10] • Can show a reasonable owner investment ("skin in the game")

[11] • Has tried to find other financing on reasonable terms and could not, or the loan would not be available without the SBA guarantee

[12] Owner requirements

[13] • Owners must be of good character, with no unresolved issues such as delinquent federal debt or defaults on prior government-backed loans

[14] • Under current SBA rules, businesses must generally be owned entirely by U.S. citizens, U.S. nationals, or lawful permanent residents

[15] • Certain criminal history, recent bankruptcy, or an unpaid federal tax debt can affect eligibility

[16] Businesses that are generally not eligible

[17] • Businesses primarily engaged in lending or financial activities

[18] • Passive real estate investment (for example, owning property only to rent to others)

[19] • Gambling businesses and others deriving significant revenue from gambling

[20] • Speculative businesses (for example, trading or investing)

[21] • Pyramid sales plans

NOTES

[22] • Businesses engaged in activity that is illegal under federal law, including marijuana-related businesses

[23] • Nonprofit, religious, and government-owned organizations

[24] • Certain businesses of a prurient sexual nature

[25] Credit and finances

[26] The SBA does not set one universal credit score. In practice, many lenders look for personal credit scores in the high 600s or better, a business that can show repayment ability from cash flow, and a clean history with government debt.

[27] Check where you stand

[28] The eligibility quiz [link: /quiz/] walks through these questions anonymously.

[29] This is a summary, not the full rule set. See the SBA's Standard Operating Procedure (SOP 50 10) and sba.gov [link: https://www.sba.gov/funding-programs/loans/7a-loans] for official requirements.

[2] How Can You Use SBA 7(a) Loan Proceeds?

[3] Last reviewed: October 25, 2026

[4] 7(a) loans are flexible. Funds must be used for a sound business purpose.

[5] Common approved uses

[6] • Working capital: payroll, inventory, and day-to-day operating expenses

[7] • Equipment and machinery: purchase or installation

[8] • Commercial real estate: buying land or a building, or constructing or renovating (the business must generally occupy a majority of owner-occupied space)

[9] • Leasehold improvements

[10] • Buying a business or a change of ownership, including partner buyouts

[11] • Starting a business: startup costs

[12] • Refinancing existing business debt, when the refinance gives a clear benefit to the business

[13] • Franchise fees (for franchises on the SBA's eligible list)

[14] Uses that are not allowed

[15] • Personal expenses or distributions to owners not tied to a business purpose

[16] • Speculative investments

[17] • Paying certain delinquent taxes (such as unpaid payroll trust-fund taxes)

[18] • Refinancing debt that the SBA does not allow to be refinanced, or debt that already has an SBA guarantee in some cases

[19] • Purchasing real estate for passive investment

[20] Your lender decides the details

[21] Each lender will ask for a use-of-proceeds breakdown in your application. Having this ready makes the process faster. See how to apply [link: /learn/how-to-apply/].

[1] Home [link: /] / Learn [link: /learn/]

[2] SBA 7(a) Rates, Fees, and Terms

[3] Last reviewed: October 25, 2026

[4] Interest rates

[5] The SBA sets maximum interest rates. Lenders may charge less. Rates are quoted as a base rate (such as the Prime Rate) plus a spread. Larger loans generally have smaller maximum spreads.

[6] Table

Loan amount	Typical maximum spread over base rate
$50,000 or less	Base + 6.5%
$50,001 to $250,000	Base + 6.0%
$250,001 to $350,000	Base + 4.5%
Over $350,000	Base + 3.0%

[7] Rates may be fixed or variable. Variable rates adjust over the life of the loan.

[8] Verify current figures. The SBA updates these maximums periodically. Confirm the current numbers at sba.gov [link: https://www.sba.gov/funding-programs/loans/7a-loans] before relying on them.

[9] Fees

[10] • SBA guarantee fee: a one-time fee based on the guaranteed portion and the loan size and term. The SBA changes this schedule from time to time, and some loan sizes may have reduced or waived fees.

[11] • Lender fees: packaging, closing, or servicing fees, within SBA limits

[12] • No prepayment penalty on most loans with terms under 15 years. Longer-term loans may have a declining penalty during the first three years.

[13] Repayment terms

NOTES

[14] Table

Purpose	Maximum term
Working capital, equipment (based on useful life), most purposes	Up to 10 years
Commercial real estate	Up to 25 years

[15] Because terms are long, monthly payments are often lower than on shorter conventional loans.

[16] What affects your actual rate

[17] Your lender will consider your credit history, cash flow, collateral, industry, and the size of the loan. Comparing offers from more than one lender is smart.

[1] Home [link: /] / Learn [link: /learn/]

[2] Collateral and Personal Guarantees

[3] Last reviewed: October 25, 2026

[4] Collateral

[5] Lenders must follow the SBA's collateral policy, which generally requires them to take available business assets and, in many cases, real estate as collateral for larger loans. For loans over $50,000, lenders typically take what is reasonably available, up to the loan amount.

[6] The SBA does not require a lender to decline a loan solely because the collateral is not enough. A creditworthy business with limited collateral can still be approved, though the lender may ask for more of other strengths.

[7] Personal guarantees

[8] Anyone who owns 20% or more of the business must usually provide an unlimited personal guarantee. This means that if the business cannot repay, you could be personally responsible. Lenders may also ask for guarantees from other owners or closely related people.

[9] Owner investment

[10] For startups and changes of ownership, expect the lender to require an equity injection from the owner (commonly at least 10% of the project cost).

[11] Questions to ask a lender

[12] • What collateral will you take, and how will it be valued?

[13] • Who must sign a personal guarantee?

[14] • Is there a lien on my home? (Lenders may take a lien on a residence only in limited situations. Ask.)

[2] How to Apply for an SBA 7(a) Loan

[3] Last reviewed: October 25, 2026

[4] Step by step

[5] 1. Know your numbers. Decide how much you need and exactly how you will use it.

[6] 2. Check eligibility. Take the anonymous quiz [link: /quiz/] and read the eligibility guide [link: /learn/eligibility/].

[7] 3. Gather documents (checklist below).

[8] 4. Choose a lender. You apply directly with an SBA-approved lender. Talk to more than one and compare.

[9] 5. Complete the application. The lender helps with the required SBA forms.

[10] 6. Underwriting. The lender reviews your credit, cash flow, and collateral. Some lenders can approve under their own SBA delegated authority, which is generally faster.

[11] 7. Closing and funding. After approval you sign loan documents and funds are disbursed.

[12] Document checklist

[13] For the business

[14] • Business tax returns, typically the last 3 years

[15] • Year-to-date profit and loss statement and balance sheet

[16] • Debt schedule listing current business debts

[17] • Business plan and financial projections (especially for startups)

[18] • Business license and formation documents

[19] • Lease or real estate documents, if relevant

[20] • Quotes or invoices for equipment or other purchases

[21] For each owner of 20% or more

[22] • Personal tax returns, typically the last 3 years

NOTES

[23] • Personal financial statement

[24] • Resume or business experience summary

[25] • Government-issued ID

[26] How long does it take?

[27] It varies widely, from a few weeks to a few months, depending on the lender, loan size, and how complete your documents are.

[28] Where to get free help

[3] Last reviewed: October 25, 2026

[4] If you do not qualify for a standard 7(a) loan, or another program fits better, consider these.

[5] SBA 504 loans

[6] Long-term, fixed-rate financing for major fixed assets such as real estate and heavy equipment. Funded through a partnership of a bank lender and a Certified Development Company (CDC). Often a better fit than 7(a) for large real-estate purchases.

[7] SBA Microloans

[8] Loans of up to $50,000 made through nonprofit intermediary lenders. Good for startups, very small businesses, and those with limited credit history. Many intermediaries also provide training.

[9] SBA Express (a 7(a) variation)

[10] Faster, simpler 7(a) loans of up to $500,000, with a lower SBA guarantee. Lenders use their own processes, so approval can be quicker.

[11] 7(a) Small Loans

[12] 7(a) loans of $350,000 or less are processed under streamlined rules.

[13] Disaster loans

[14] Low-interest loans for businesses affected by declared disasters.

[15] Non-SBA options

[16] Conventional bank loans, credit unions, online lenders, community development financial institutions (CDFIs), and equipment financing. Compare total cost carefully.

[2] SBA 7(a) Loan FAQ

[3] Last reviewed: October 25, 2026

[4] Is this website a lender?

[5] No. Free SBA Info is not a lender and not a commercial loan broker. We provide free information and an optional referral service.

[6] Does the SBA give me the money?

[7] Usually no. Participating lenders fund the loan and the SBA guarantees part of it.

[8] What is the maximum loan amount?

[9] $5 million for a standard 7(a) loan.

[10] Can I get a 7(a) loan with a startup?

[11] Yes, some startups qualify, but lenders usually want strong personal credit, relevant experience, a solid business plan, and a meaningful owner investment.

[12] What credit score do I need?

[13] The SBA does not set a single minimum. Many lenders look for personal scores in the high 600s or higher. Requirements vary.

[14] Is collateral required?

[15] Lenders generally take available collateral for larger loans, but a loan can still be approved if collateral is limited. See collateral and guarantees [link: /learn/collateral-and-guarantees/].

[16] How long does approval take?

[17] From a few weeks to a few months.

[18] Does the quiz collect my personal information?

[19] No. The quiz asks only about your business situation and never your name, business name, or contact details. Answers stay in your browser.

[20] What happens if I ask for a lender referral?

NOTES

[21] You will be asked for contact information and your explicit permission. We then share it, along with your quiz answers, with SBA lenders we have relationships with. Using the referral is optional and has no cost to you. See our disclosures [link: /disclosures/].

[22] Does a “likely eligible” result mean I’m approved?

[23] No. Only a lender can approve a loan, after reviewing your full application.

[5] Collateral: assets pledged to a lender to secure a loan.

[6] Debt service coverage ratio (DSCR): your business's cash flow divided by its loan payments. Lenders usually want it above 1.0, often 1.15 or higher.

[7] Equity injection: cash the owner puts into a purchase or startup.

[8] Guarantee (SBA): the SBA's promise to repay a lender a percentage of a loss if the borrower defaults.

[9] Guarantee fee: a fee charged on the guaranteed portion of an SBA loan.

[10] Personal guarantee: a promise by an owner to repay the loan personally if the business cannot.

[11] Prime Rate: a benchmark interest rate often used as the base for variable-rate loans.

[12] Size standard: the SBA's limit, by industry, on revenue or employees for a business to be considered small.

[13] Term loan: a loan repaid in installments over a fixed period.

[3] Last reviewed: October 25, 2026

[4] Free SBA Info exists to help U.S. small business owners understand SBA 7(a) term loans and find out whether they may qualify, without cost and without having to share personal information.

[5] What we are, and are not

[6] • We are an educational website with a free, anonymous eligibility quiz.

[7] • We are not a lender and not a commercial loan broker. We do not make loans, take applications, negotiate terms, or make credit decisions.

[8] • We are not affiliated with the U.S. Small Business Administration.

[9] Why is it free?

[10] You never pay to use this site. If you choose the optional lender referral at the end of the quiz, SBA lenders that we have relationships with may compensate us for introductions. That compensation does not affect what you pay for a loan, and you are never required to use it. See our disclosures [link: /disclosures/].

[5] Free SBA Info is not a lender and not a commercial loan broker. We do not originate, fund, arrange, or negotiate loans, and we do not guarantee that you will be contacted by, approved by, or receive an offer from any lender.

[6] Not affiliated with the SBA

[7] This website is independent. It is not affiliated with, endorsed by, or sponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration or any government agency.

[8] Quiz results

[9] The eligibility quiz is a general educational tool based on published SBA criteria. Results are not a credit decision, an offer of credit, or a prediction of approval. Only an SBA-approved lender can evaluate and approve an application.

[10] Lender referrals and compensation

[11] If you opt in, we share the information you provide with SBA lenders with whom we have relationships. We may receive compensation from those lenders for referrals. This does not increase your costs. Lenders in our network are not the only options available, and you are encouraged to compare offers from other lenders.

[12] No advice

[13] Content on this site is for general information only and is not legal, tax, accounting, or financial advice. Consult qualified professionals about your situation.

[14] Accuracy

[15] We work to keep information current but cannot guarantee that it is complete or up to date. SBA rules, rates, and fees change.

[5] Summary

[6] • You can read this entire site and take the quiz without giving us any personal information.

[7] • Quiz answers stay in your browser unless you choose the optional lender referral.

[8] • If you request a referral, we share your information with SBA lenders, as described below.

[9] Information we collect

[10] Quiz answers. Processed in your browser. Not sent to us unless you request a referral.

[11] Referral information (optional). If you ask to be referred to lenders, we collect your name, business name, email, phone number, state, your quiz answers, and a record of your consent (the wording you agreed to and the time).

[12] Technical data. Our hosting provider, Cloudflare, processes standard request data such as IP address and browser type to deliver the site and protect it from abuse. We use Cloudflare Turnstile to block spam on the referral form.

[13] How we use and share it

[14] We use referral information to pass it to SBA lenders with whom we have relationships so they can contact you about loan options. We do not sell your information to other third parties. Lenders that receive your information handle it under their own privacy policies.

[15] Retention

[16] We keep referral records for as long as needed for business, legal, and compliance purposes, then delete or anonymize them.

NOTES

[17] Your choices

[18] You may ask us to delete your information, or ask what we hold, by contacting us at the address below. Because lenders receive your information, you may also need to contact them directly. You can opt out of marketing communications from a lender by following its instructions.

[19] Cookies

[20] We do not use advertising cookies. Turnstile may set limited cookies when the referral form is shown.

[21] Children

[22] This site is intended for adults who own or operate businesses.
